FOOTE—Paul Richard III, age 68, died at home in Brookline, MA, on March 14, in the company of his husband, Prof. Angel David Nieves. Architect and editor, educated at Yale and Syracuse University, Richard had a quick and irreverent wit, restless and wide-ranging intelligence, and encyclopedic recall of detail. His designs suavely combined Classical Revival and Mid-century Modernism. He is survived by his sisters Sarah Foote-Claflin, Ellen Foote, Caroline Foote, and Martha Foote; brothers-in-law Edward B. Claflin, Steve Hindy, William Breckwoldt, and Joseph Burke; nephews and nieces Lily Hindy, Julia Breckwoldt, Scott Breckwoldt, Tim Breckwoldt, and Johnston Burke; and grandniece Emilia Hindy Armas.
